Vittoriale degli Italiani

Poet Gabriele D'Annunzio's house museum. An absolutely fascinating venue overlooking Lake Garda that astonishes the visitors with the variety, eclecticism and originality of thousands of objects, the bow of a cruiser ship nestled in the promontory among the greenery, an anti-submarine motorboat used in a military raid as well as a plane used for his propaganda flight over Vienna.

The visit continues to museums exhibiting the poet's cars, many other precious objects collected by him throughout his life and contemporary works of art inspired by the poet.

Garda Island – Villa Cavazza

The Island owes its charm to the extraordinary Venetian neo-Gothic style villa, designed by architect Luigi Rovelli at the beginning of the 20th century; an imposing harmonious building, rich in astonishing architectural details. Below, the terraces and Italian gardens slope down towards the lake.

The surrounding area is full of lush vegetation with a wealth of local, exotic plants, rare essences and unique flowers.

Lonato Castle and Villa del Podestà

The 15th century seat of the Venetian government representative (Podestà), transformed into barracks by the Austrians. In the 20th century it was bought by the Senator Ugo Da Como from Brescia, who entrusted the complete restoration of the building to architect Antonio Tagliaferri, transforming it into a refined, eclectic bourgeois residence: bas-reliefs, carved ceilings, frescoes, furniture, sculptures and numerous objects. In the heart of the dwelling, there is the library that houses over 52,000 books including manuscripts, incunabula, cinquecentine, bibliographical and autograph collections.
